Erap gets Comelec nod: Watch my rating soar

WHY JUST BE A "KINGMAKER" WHEN YOU CAN BE THE "KING" YOURSELF?

Freda from getting the nod of a division of the Commission on Elections for him to take another shot at Malacañang, deposed President Joseph Estrada yesterday said he would run without withdrawal from the presidential race.
Estrada said he would stay it up "in the end" because he wanted to be "king again."
Estrada said the Comelec decision would have a "big impact" on his campaign because his detractors were spending "malinformation" that he would withdraw from the race or be disqualified.
Now that the poll body has ruled in his favor, he expects his ratings to reverse to rise.
Estrada, the candidate of the Porma ng Bayan Pilipino, has been a consistent third place, after Senator Benigno "Neneng" Aquino III and Manuel Villar.

Gory video: Lawyers throw up, walk out

By Cathy C. Yanes and Marlon Ranas

THE PRIVATE LAWYER REPRESENTING the kin of 14 of the 39 journalists killed on Nov. 23 in Maguindayao was so appalled yesterday by footage of bodies being snuffed out at the massacre site that he rushed to the locker room to throw up.
Harry Roque, who stands nearby on the set, was showing a video of policemen and civilians dragging up bodies of the alleged victims of principal murder suspect Andal Ampatuan Jr. when he suddenly rose with a head cupped over his mouth and, making hearing sounds, ran to the back of the world hall of the Proconatedional Office Club in Camp Crame.

Enrile-Villar faceoff in suspended animation

NO THERMOS, FOR NOW

The expected showdown between Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile and Sen. Manuel Villar did not happen yesterday as lack of agreement continued to stall efforts of the majority bloc to have the committee report on the C-5 road project controversy adopted in plenary.
The chamber adjourned before 7 last night with the warring blocs held up in their respective offices.

Speaking to reporters earlier in the day, Enrile accused Villar of misunderstanding his intent not only to stop disbursements on the C-5 road but also to get off to "control" of the Senate leadership in time for the anniversary of votes in the May presidential election.
Enrile also doubted whether the Nacionalista Party incumbent would have enough clout to control him, claiming he still enjoyed the support of 12 senators in the 22-member chamber.

Erich Segal, 72: Never say sorry for 'Love Story'

LONDON—ERICH SEGAL, THE Ivy League professor who authored mainstream fiction and made millions out of the novel and movie "Love Story," has died of a heart attack, his daughter said Tuesday, age 72.
Francis Segal said her father, whose popular romance stories colored the phrase "Love meets never having to say you're sorry," died Sunday at his home in London.

She said he had suffered from Parkinson's disease—a neurological condition that affects movement—for 26 years. His funeral was held in London on Tuesday.

Stunning blow to Obama: Democrats lose Kennedy seat

BOSTON—IN A POLITICAL shock, a Republican won the US Senate seat long held by liberal champion Edward M. Kennedy, dealing a huge blow to President Barack Obama and his beleaguered Democrats just as he concludes his first year in office.

The loss was a stunning embarrassment for the White House.
Republican Scott Brown took a wave of votes against his best Democratic challenger in Tuesday's special Senate election in Massachusetts.

Brown became the first Republican elected to the US Senate from reliably Democratic Massachusetts since 1972.
With Brown's victory in Massachusetts, Senate Democrats lost the 60-vote supermajority needed to achieve Obama's top goals. That could doom the healthcare bill and make it more difficult to pass legislation on climate change and other top White House priorities.

The move also signaled big political problems for the president's party this fall when House, Senate and gubernatorial candidates are on the ballot nationwide.
It looks poorly for Democrats ahead of November's congressional elections. If they cannot

Magdalo backs term extension for AFP chief

By Joseph R. Uy

THE MAGDALO GROUP YESTERDAY said it was supporting only for the extension of term of office of the Philippine 166th Chief of Staff Gen. Romeo Brando's term beyond March as this would help boost the confidence of the nation on the upcoming May elections.

Brando has been at the helm of the military organization since May last year and has proven to be professional and competent, according to Magdalo spokespersons today.

"Considering the term of Gen. Brando would be a good move on the part of the administration... so this would boost the confidence of the electorate and (would also give) the next president a free hand in choosing the next military chief," Amillo told reporters yesterday.

Amillo said that when Brando comes in two months before the presidential election, Army Chief Gen. Danilo Rangel, reportedly a close ally of President Macapagal-Arroyo, will be in a difficult position.

It would be a surprise move on the part of the administration as this could trigger "a lot of suspicion" especially with the upcoming elections, said Amillo.

Several ranking officials of the AFP had been listed in the "Little Green" scandal which triggered a rapid conversion between former defense minister Rodrigo Duterte and President Macapagal-Arroyo that the latter had allowed in the 1994 election.

Brando said the group's support for Brando's term extension was merely symbolic in a meeting at Camp Crame, where most of its members are currently detained for military-related offenses charged in relation to the Outlawed Society in 2000 and the Manila Peninsula drug in 2007.

2 Syrian fugitives fall, face deportation

THE BUREAU of Immigration (BOI) said its Central Liaison Operations have arrested two Syrians wanted by authorities in their country for murder, in a report to local police. Commissioner Marcelino Dizon, Immigration Area Director for Central Liaison Operations Manila identified the Syrian as Abu Feroz and Abdul Wahabeddin Didi, who were arrested on Jan. 21 in their rented house in Barangay San Pedro, Taguig City, Metro Manila.

The two are now detained at the immigration detention center in Marikina.

Taguig City, pending deportation proceedings. Manila said he sought the issuance of a mission order against the Syrians at the request of the Syrian consulate in Manila which sought the immediate deportation of the Syrians to Damascus. Likewise, in a statement, said the Syrian arrest was another proof of the success of the BOI's repatriation program. He said the profile set to be used to report to the country's law enforcement officials the presence of any illegal or undesirable alien in their area. According to Syrian consulate officials, these are wanted in Syria for a number of reasons while Didi is a criminal witness to the same crime. They are both undocumented aliens at the Syrian government, but already awarded their passports. Arriving

With lake still swollen, 3 options emerge

Officials look at dredging, spillway, Caliraya facility

By Florio C. Soliman
 San Pedro, Laguna

WHAT TO DO WITH THE SWOLLEN LAGUNA lake?
 Authorities are looking at three options—dredging, building a 900-million Philippine peso spillway and putting up the Caliraya hydroelectric system to help remove excess water from the lake.

Late last year, a string of storms caused a massive rise in the water level of Laguna de Bay, flooding hundreds of lake-side homes.

"Water from the lake could be pumped into the Caliraya Lake in the corner of Laguna de Bay, flooding hundreds of lake-side homes," said Ricardo Manda, general manager of the Laguna Lake Development Authority, in a photo-caption.

The Westlake spillway, on the other hand, could speed up draining of excess water to prevent an overflow of the lake, he said. At present, excess water drains only through the Naag River in the Manila Bay, creating floods in longer for months.

The Laguna provincial government has welcomed plans to develop the lake.

"The government has given a disaster and safety already on duty with the LLDA," said provincial information officer Chris Inag.

It said the dredged soil could be used to build a levee system around the lake.

Illegal settlers

The provincial government has also increased the number of housing units (lake workers) to remove illegal settlers and prevent them from settling in the lake.

The water level in Laguna lake peaked at 14 meters at the height of Tropical Storms "Ondoy" and "Pam" in September and October last year and was 14.62 meters measured in 1970.

It has declined to its present 12.25 meters, but "because of other reasons" of excess water will be in its danger level of 11 meters, said Manda.

Dredging will begin in the fourth quarter, he said.

"When the national legislature meets next week of December, except in areas that are really low lying (subsidized) in San Pedro, Marikina and Caliraya," he said.

All water in the Laguna de Bay, disaster like this can threaten people in Laguna.

In Laguna, the number of settlers has gone down from hundreds thousands to 2,000, according to the provincial government.

"The remaining families are staying in some cities provided by the government," Inag said.

Most families have already moved to with relatives or local other residents.

Provincial administrator Dennis Inag said in an earlier interview that the relocation of illegal settlers from the coastline, whose shores and waters were damaged by the swelling of the lake, would require a long-term, concerted effort from the national and local governments.

Political decision

"It is a political decision. It can't be done even in 10 years," Inag said, referring to some local leaders who were opposing the relocation for fear of losing political control.

He said the relocation "should be a national government project through the land use of the LLDA."

The relocation authority being considered by the provincial government are the lake's dredging and the construction of the Westlake spillway, Inag said.

In Inag, which also suffered damages from the typhoon, Manda said only around 1,200 families were staying in makeshift camps converted into evacuation centers.

Manda said the LLDA had already moved 800 families out of Laguna de Bay in Inag before the year ended, to a site in Rodriguez (Marikina) area, also in the province.

Settled

Inag said help from international organizations could aid in part in the rehabilitation of the typhoon-affected communities.

The national government will give P100 million in financial assistance to families whose houses were destroyed by the flood and P5,000 to those with damaged houses.

The World Food Program, which earlier gave food assistance to the displaced families, was on its second round of donations.

LeBron lifts Cavs past Raptors; Shaq reaches NBA milestone

CLEVELAND—LEBRON JAMES upended the Cleveland Cavaliers with a 306-300 victory over the Toronto Raptors on Thursday.

James recorded a triple-double with 30 points, 11 assists and nine rebounds, while Shaquille O'Neal reached 10,000 career points in the fourth quarter, the first time he has reached that mark.

Cleveland (32-11) held a 99-94 edge late in the fourth quarter before breaking away thanks to Williams' three-point shot and assist by James' dunk.

"This gave us a little trouble in the first half but we were able to show that down in the second half. We were a lot more physical on the defensive end," James said.

The only difficulty for us was that I missed the 1,000 free throw, O'Neal said. "I would have at least hit half of those, but I would be at 30,000 right now."

In Miami, Dwyane Wade scored 31 of his 51 points in the first quarter on the first half and in a second round early lead that ended with the Cavaliers' 113-103 victory.

Arellano, EAC new NCAA members

By Corbett Fagan

ARELLANO UNIVERSITY and Eastern Arizona College have been accepted as provisional members of the NCAA for its 2019-2020 season.

A major factor in the acceptance was the fact that the two schools had already been accepted by the NCAA-PacWest network and the Big Sky Conference.

The development increased the number of NCAA schools in the state to 10.

The state's new members are Arellano and Eastern Arizona, which were both accepted into the network. They were also accepted into the network's athletic network.

"They showed they were ready," the network said. "They were only required to attend two team meetings, but they passed all of them."

Housewife throws 2 children into river, tries to join them in suicide attempt

By The G. Searcy

DESPERATION COULD HAVE pushed a woman to throw her two young daughters in Teag River, and then, to try to join her only life.

Chief Insp. Ernest Murgueta, head of the Manila Police District homicide division, said the incident was only reported previously after the body of one of the three children was fished out of the river.

Discovery

Joseph Abella, 5, of East St. Rita, Manila Compound, was found, was discovered at 5:30 p.m. floating near the Del Rio bridge.

His older sister Arnelia, 8, remained missing, police said.

"I think he was trying to join his mother, who was killed in an accident, and was trying to join her," he said. "I think he was trying to join her."

Citing witnesses, police said the 8-year-old woman threw her two children into the river at about 4:30 a.m. Tuesday, before jumping in herself.

A neighbor, Noreen Miron, 38, said she found the woman at the bridge in the water.

"I think he was trying to join his mother, who was killed in an accident, and was trying to join her," he said. "I think he was trying to join her."

After being pulled out of the river, the young girl was found dead in Manila. The mother was found in the river at 10 a.m. and was taken to a hospital.

Recovery operations

Mate was accompanied by his brother, Jose, 21, to the police headquarters.

"I know that she is so hard on her children, but I don't know if she is so hard on her children," he said. "I know that she is so hard on her children, but I don't know if she is so hard on her children."

Partials changes will be filed against the mother, police said, adding that recovery operations were continuing for Jose.

Makati dads want council reorganization voided

By Nina Calaga

COUNCILLORS ALLIED WITH Makati City Council Mayor Joseph Alayon will ask the court to nullify the recent reorganization of the Makati City Council.

Along with eight other councilors, Jose Alayon, one of Makati Mayor Joseph Alayon's closest allies, filed a petition with the court to nullify the reorganization of the Makati City Council.

Not satisfied

The younger Alayon remains the majority floor leader, contrary to a previous report that the council would have no majority leader.

Alayon was no longer head of the committee on rules and committee on education, but he remained the majority floor leader as of the council's session on Tuesday.

The city council will take up the issue of change of leadership next week.

Violation

Lancey Aquilino "Baka" Pimentel III, legal counsel of the councilors, said in a statement that the move of Miron and the councilors aligned with him allegedly violated the internal rules and governance of the National Government Code.

Abuse of power

"There was power abuse and misuse of the re-organizing power of the city council," Pimentel said. "The governing provisions of both the internal rules of the council and the local government code were flagrantly violated."

Many eye the reorganization as a political move.

Rin

The rift between Alayon and Miron, a longtime ally of the mayor, began when the two decided to run for mayor this coming election.

Alayon's ally, Councilor Miron, however, said the reorganization would have been based on the performance of Makati councilors in the recent election conducted by Pulse Asia, showing the younger Miron and his staff leading on the local scene.

Support

According to his 10-member of Makati, mayor support Jose Alayon over the other candidates.

The mayor's councilors have also delayed the approval of important matters like the extension of the deadline for the payment of business taxes.

Disregard

"The other councilors are showing their disregard for the constituents of Makati," he said. "I think that the other councilors are showing their disregard for the constituents of Makati."

The younger Alayon, on the other hand, remained Miron's ally, he is not a member of the city council, but he cannot vote a vote to elect a mayor in a city council concerning elected councilors.

Request for law

"I hope this is not an indication of what will happen in future proceedings, where respect for the law is not, and legal issues are totally disregarded. This lack of law and order is bound to cause chaos which I hope will not happen," Pimentel said.

Legal right

In a previous interview, Miron admitted that he had a legal right to vote on the issue.

NOT FOR ANIMALS
Members of the anti-animal organization PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals) took this picture to illustrate the effects of an unattended environment on animal welfare.

Campaign ads, posters dismantled

THE METROPOLITAN MANILA Development Authority (MMDA) has started dismantling campaign posters and advertisements along major thoroughfares as part of its program to make the metropolis "clean and green."

Under Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Raul S. dela Cruz, the MMDA has started the Roadway Operations Group (ROSG) to remove the visual clutter along its own major thoroughfares.

Since 2007, personnel from ROSG have already been dispatched all over Metro Manila to remove the clutter.

"Besides cluttering the visual landscape of Metro Manila, these posters put the public at risk, as most are placed on topographic areas," Miron said in a statement.

According to him, the posting of advertisements makes the road less safe and poses a hazard to the environment in general.

Entry points

He said that according to MMDA, entry points for the posters are the main entrance to the city and the main entrance to the city.

And he said that the posters are the main entrance to the city and the main entrance to the city.

These factors, Miron said, led to the reduction of urban space and a lower quality of life in the city.

"Our foremost priority is the health and safety of the public. The people who put these posters apparently don't know that they are causing great damage to the environment," Miron said.

A monitoring unit is continuously going around Metro Manila to check public installations such as electric poles, traffic signs, and outdoor billboards that have been covered with posters and other materials.

Haiti quake dead include nationals from 30 countries

PARIS—THE TENS OF THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE DEAD AND MISSING after Haiti's devastating earthquake a week ago includes nationals from more than 30 countries, according to a compilation of various figures.

Following is a breakdown of foreign nationals confirmed killed or reported missing after the Jan. 12 disaster.

Survivors of people from Brazil, Canada, the Dominican Republic, of China, India, Ireland, Japan and Guatemala were all confirmed on Tuesday and Haitian officials said the eventually toll had risen above 75,000. Argentina's police were working with the United Nations to find.

A Canadian Associated Press (AP) writer was confirmed dead.

Austria: A 64-year-old Austrian woman working for a German aid development organization died in a hospital from injuries sustained when a building she was in collapsed.

Belgium: The foreign ministry here said that 30 Belgians were unaccounted for in Haiti. Three were officially listed as missing.

Brazil: A total of 14 Brazilians have been confirmed as killed—17 victims with the UN.

Canada: Thirteen Canadians were confirmed killed in the quake and 600 are still missing.

China: A 44-year-old Chinese woman working for the UN was confirmed killed.

Colombia: Eighty and eight Colombians, two preachers and four others who were part of a Chinese public security team, were killed.

Czech Republic: Foreign: A 44-year-old Czech woman working for the UN was among those who died.

France: A total of 13 French citizens have been confirmed killed and 14 remain unaccounted for.

Germany: One German citizen was killed.

Guatemala: The body of a Guatemalan national working for the UN was pulled out of the debris of the world body's mission house.

Spain: On Tuesday

India: An IT technician from India was confirmed to be among the 1200 dead on Tuesday.

Indonesia: A UN official with dual Irish and US citizenship was killed.

Italy: Authorities had no news of 20 Italians, including two UN workers. Another Italian is believed dead.

Japan: At least three soldiers with the UN peacekeeping contingent were killed.

Malaysia: The foreign ministry said a local car brand from two Malaysian citizens, one working with the UN and the other in the private sector.

Mexico: A total of 13 Mexicans were unaccounted for. One Mexican resident of Port-au-Prince died when a hospital where she was in process collapsed.

The Netherlands: Eleven Dutch nationals in Haiti, including two couples and their three children, were still missing.

New Zealand: Two New Zealand-born children and their French father were confirmed killed in a collapsed Port-au-Prince hotel.

Niger: A security officer from Niger was killed by the UN among the dead on Tuesday.

Philippines: Manila confirmed the deaths of two Filipinos—one male civilian UN staff member and one female soldier serving with the UN peacekeepers.

Portugal: Foreign: Portuguese are missing and believed trapped in the rubble of the Christmas Hotel.

Russia: A 40-year-old Russian working with the UN was confirmed by a falling wall.

Second: One student in missing, according to his family.

Switzerland: Two citizens could not be confirmed.

Taiwan: Two police officers working with the UN mission were missing.

SAFETY Police of International Search and Rescue Services (SAR) are working to rescue victims and put a ceasefire on the search for a missing person in Port-au-Prince on Jan. 18.

Elderly woman pulled alive from Haiti cathedral rubble

PORT-AU-PRINCE—EVERYBODY IS CELEBRATING it as when an elderly woman was pulled alive from the rubble of Haiti's Roman Catholic cathedral, one full week after a killer quake here had left the building in ruins.

Rescue workers kept and hugged each other in the woman, called in debris and dead, was placed on a stretcher and taken to a hospital, covered with a blanket.

It was not clear if she was still alive, said French Wilson, of British charity Christian Aid.

"I never assume were communicating with her and managing to get her to be through a tube. She was crying when she was pulled. Everyone clapped and cheered," he said.

At 2:30 p.m., was rescued by Mission Red Agents at about 2:30 p.m. local time, he hours short of a full week after a 7.0 magnitude quake devastated the Haitian capital.

Her rescue gave hope to thousands of other workers still digging for survivors in the ruins of the capital, where the search of rubble is still ongoing.

Wilson officials have put the death toll so far at 75,000 but have warned that 200,000 may have perished.

UN's World Meteorological Service was interrupted by CNN in the United States shortly after they rescued his mother, whose age he said was 60 or 70.

"I never give up hope, as I'm still seeing a lot for this to happen," he said at the time of his rescue.

Asked what he did when he was told his mother was alive, Amour said, "I cried myself to sleep. In my time here, and he is very happy."

RP sees P9B in losses from free trade deals

Teves says increase in exports to outweigh negative effect

By Rowen W. Domingo

FREE TRADE AGREEMENTS WITH LARGE NEIGHBORING markets that took effect starting Jan. 1 and provide for the gradual removal of tariffs will pare off up to P9 billion from government revenues this year.

Finance Secretary Margarita B. Teves, however, said the negative effect of the resulting tariffs would be "quickly compensated" by the expected rise in the sale of goods to foreign.

"Growth will slow will be offsetted, but there will be additional imposition of new materials that will increase inputs for the related products," Teves said.

For 2010, the net effect of reduced tariffs would be revenue losses of between P7 billion and P9 billion, "he said.

ALI readies P20-B facelift of Ayala Center

By Dave C. Domingo

PROPERTY GROUP AYALA LARGED INC. HAS mapped out a P20-billion master redevelopment of Ayala Center—one of its most ambitious projects in the country's premier central business district as far—as focus its suite of residential, office, hotel and retail property offerings alongside its expected to rise real estate market.

Part and parcel of the redevelopment is the construction of the 20-story Rock Tower, envisioned to be an iconic residential condominium redefining the skyline of Ayala Center, which will rise right beside the historic brown facade of the Rock Tower.

"This is just one more of the very fine and very strategic projects that will be sold around the Ayala Center," ALI chairman Fernando Zola de Ayala said during the launch of Rock Tower Tuesday night. The new residential project also marks ALI's return to the upscale Makati residential property market for the first time since the opening of The Residences at Cavendish in 2006.

ALI president Antonio Aguirre said the P20-billion redevelopment of Ayala Center along the five-block span of Chiconia I and 2 would include the construction of two new office buildings and one modern spa hotel.

Ayala Investments (ALI) property sales, Aguirre said the redeveloping, which will take place within the next three to five years, would result in a "financial expansion" of re-emerging earnings. He said the redevelopment would expand 8.2% office space available for rent by 40,000 square meters and the Ayala Center shopping mall space by another 20,000 square meters. The business hotel, on the other hand, will offer 200,000 rooms.

In the case of Rock Tower, Aguirre said the company would initially offer 150 units, but eventually bring to the market a total of 270 units. ALI, through its high-end brand, Ayala Land Premier, will sell residential units to the new community for below $950,000 to as high as $1.5 million, with the floor area ranging from 77 to 272 square meters.

After an initial launch following the US-led global financial crisis, Zola said the property market started picking starting June last year and had continued to pick up enough. He said ALI which sold 2,300 unit

Farm output misses '09 target

Q4 performance cut gains in first nine months, says DA

By Rex T. Dela Cruz

THE RAIN AND FLOODING SECTION led to revised growth target of 9.5-1.5 percent for 2009.

The Department of Agriculture's revised growth target for 2009 was about 2.5 percent, far below the 2008 growth of 1.8 percent.

Data from the Bureau of Agricultural Statistics (BAS), however, showed that the agriculture sector grew by only 0.33 percent, as full-year figures were pulled down by the upsurge in food and feed prices.

"The gains of the first three quarters were cut by huge production losses during the fourth quarter of 2009," Agriculture Secretary Wilfredo C. Yap said. "In the fourth quarter alone, rice output slumped by 2.41 percent from year ago level. The output losses have the basis of upstream and floods.

Only an estimated rice production, which makes up a 80% of the total farm output, dropped in the last three months of the year by 12 percent to 1.26 million tons from 6.20 million tons in the same months in 2008.

The fisheries subsector was the agriculture sector's top performer in 2009, with a 3.45-percent production growth in the same period. Poultry production grew by 1.82 percent, followed by crops (1.41 percent) and livestock (1.24 percent) this year ago level.

For the whole year, farm production declined by 2.32 percent to 16.33 million tons from year ago level, while non-agricultural output rose by 1.53 percent.

Overall production grew by 2.2 percent last year, but the agriculture sector declined by 14.77 percent.

The agriculture department missed

Tropical Storm "Ondoy" and Typhoon "Yongun" for the decline in farm output.

Consistent with food security, the DA said it would give priority to agriculture and fisheries biotechnology and post-harvest technology to an effort to increase productivity and incomes.

The government revised its growth target for 2009 to 9.5-1.5 percent to reflect the impact of the typhoon and the impact of the typhoon on the agriculture sector. It was revised down to about 2.5 percent in the middle of 2009 and was later adjusted to 9.5-1.5 percent in the aftermath of "Ondoy" and "Yongun."

According to the DA, the DA said the sector would likely meet the lower end of its adjusted growth target range.

The government had already made large investments in a tight global market last year to build off potential domestic risk. With export losses, the DA

BPO sector seen posting $11B-$13B in revenue

RP needs to establish presence in procurement space, study says

By Edgardo M. Jr.

THE COUNTRY'S BUSINESS PROCESS OUTSOURCING industry is expected to generate between $11 billion and $13 billion in revenue this year, as more companies move to outsource their back-office functions to cut costs and make operations more efficient.

Trade Secretary Peter Pardo, in a speech read by Trade Undersecretary Ramon Almendral, said the prospects for the industry were bright, as the world started to emerge from the economic downturn.

This year, he said, the Philippine BPO industry should register between $10.5 billion and $13 billion, up from $9.5 billion last year.

The country is also likely to secure 10 percent of the global BPO market in 2010, he said.

The 2009 and 2008 recession, he said, resulted in more companies looking for ways to cut costs. Instead of slowing down, locally-based BPO firms continued to expand amid the crisis.

"It creates a new opportunity to show the world how we respond and cope. The test result and one we are not see the crisis as an opportunity to keep pace our competitors overseas by capitalizing on new BPO areas where the Philippines has distinct advantages," he said.

According to a recent study by PricewaterhouseCoopers, the Philippines still has room to replace other BPO areas, particularly the procurement segment.

The study showed that the country already had presence in the contact center, finance and accounting, human resources, marketing and sales, and legal services segments, but has yet to establish presence in the procurement space.

The Department of Trade and Industry believes there are still a lot of opportunities for the country to expand its BPO services.

The DTI and the Center for International Trade Expositions and Martians will be holding the 20th e-Services Global Survey Conference and Exhibition on Feb. 9 to showcase what local BPO companies and other firms engaged in IT-enabled services have to offer.

Last year's event generated $20 million worth of sales and contracts and attracted 1,164 local and foreign buyers.

BSP backs bridge banking plan

By Michelle T. Bente

THE BANKING CENTRAL BANK (BSP) supports the "bridge banking" system proposed by Philippine Export Insurance Corp.

Under the system, PSEC will temporarily take over and continue operating a failed bank and eventually allow it to restart the bank.

The BSP agrees with PSEC's position that bridge banking will prevent panic among depositors in case of a bank failure. The system will also help maintain stability in the banking industry even if a member is in trouble.

"We do not have any opposition to a bridge banking system," said PSEC President and CEO, Dr. R. P. Deputo. "We are confident that bridge banking will prevent panic among depositors in case of a bank failure. The system will also help maintain stability in the banking industry even if a member is in trouble."

Specifically, under the proposed bridge banking system, a failed bank should have its assets divided into two bad and good ones. The bad assets should be retained and used for liquidation and operations of the bank, which should already be approved by PSEC.

PSEC President Dr. R. P. Deputo said that bridge banking would have no immediate liquidation of bank assets.

Under the deposit insurer's proposal, a bank closed down by the BSP for reasons such as mismanagement, capital deficiency or engagement in unethical banking practices should be placed under the proposed bridge banking system and operated by PSEC, the following day.

"It should be treated as an asset in the deposit insurer's portfolio," he said.

If a failed bank is taken over by PSEC and remains open the day after its closure, the deposit insurer does not have to reimburse the depositors.

Member proposed that PSEC be given the right to dispose of the bank by selling it to a financially sound firm.

The proposed system is subject to the BSP's ruling and standards in the BSP charter.

PSEC has been helping in the provision of bridge banking services included in the recently passed law strengthening its charter. However, some congressional committees have reservations on the proposal and as Congress did not include such provisions.

The new PSEC charter raised the amount of deposit insurance coverage from P200,000 to P500,000 per bank.

The bridge banking system was proposed earlier following the spate of closures of rural banks last year. Estimates said there were more than 34 rural banks closed last year on top of the 12 banks closed by the legacy Group Inc. due to a loan by the BSP in December 2008.
